Condom FAQ's

Is it safer to use two condoms?

No. Using two condoms (either both male condoms, both female condoms, or a male and a female condom together) actually increases the risk of ripping or tearing the condom. Use just one condom each time you have sex and your risk of STIs (sexually transmitted infections) and pregnancy will decrease significantly.

How stretchy are condoms?

Pretty stretchy. Condoms come in different sizes and many different styles to fit all penises. You can actually fit a condom over your entire forearm or even a regulation NCAA football!

Is it bad to use a condom twice?

Yes. Condoms are a one-time use product. You can get 100 condoms for only $15.99 at the Campus Health Pharmacy, or get a sample pack for free every Friday at Free Condom Friday from 12-2pm at UA Campus Health.

What is the purpose of flavored condoms?

Flavor! These condoms are best used for oral sex on a penis. They decrease the risk of STI transmission while tasting like strawberry, chocolate, mint, and other exciting flavors (which taste much better than latex). Flavored latex dams are also available for oral sex on a vulva or an anus.

How often do condoms break?

Not very often when they're stored and used correctly. If a condom does break, it's likely because the condom is expired, has been punctured, or space was not left at the tip of the condom. If this happens, emergency contraception is available at the Campus Health Pharmacy for $35. Plan B is 75-89% effective in preventing pregnancy if taken within hours (up to 72 hours) of unprotected sex.
